AWARDS & FELLOWSHIPS

17 Fraser Centre Awards / Directed Funding

Our centre offered 17 funding opportunities (a total value of $340,500) to support patient-oriented research teams in planning activities, knowledge translation and dissemination, implementation, and research team supports. This year, we offered additional funding to support and build capacity for patient-oriented Indigenous health research in the Fraser region.

Some of our first-time award recipients include:

Dr. Lyana Patrick (SFU); Joanne Mills (Community Partner Co-Lead); Keenan McCarthy (Community Partner Co-Lead) | Urban Indigenous Health in Surrey: Building research relationships to strengthen health and well-being in a fast-growing population

Dr. Angela Kaida (SFU); Valerie Nicholson (Patient Partner Co-Lead) | “Everything I’m passing on to you is everything I learned on my journey”: Sharing knowledge and creating connections with a CHIWOS-PAW Fraser Gathering

Dr. Vasily Vakorin (SFU); Kati Debelic (Patient Partner Co-Lead); Dr. Luis Nacul (BC Women’s Hospital & Health Centre); Dr. Sam Doesburg (SFU); Dr. Urs Ribary (SFU) | Developing a program for studying Myalgic Encephalomyelitis with neurophysiological tools

Dr. Travis Salway (SFU) | Development and implementation of a patient-informed health care provider guide for responding to anxiety in sexual health service settings

7 Fellowships for Patient-Oriented Research

Our centre granted our first training Fellowships for Patient-Oriented Research to 2 Fraser Health clinicians, and 5 Simon Fraser University graduate students. Fellows received capacity building in POR and KT methods and stakeholder engagement, and were provided a supportive network to advance their own patient-oriented research projects. The 2019/2020 Fellows are:

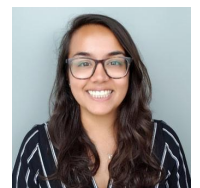

Michelle Tsai,
Rebekah Sandu

Betty Chinda, Vanessa Fong, Brooke Hockin,
Vera-Ellen Lucci, Mei-Ling Wiedmeyer
